SIX BANDITS ESCAPE AFTER PISTOL BATTLE WITH POLICE

One Patrolman is Dying, Another Wounded in Foot.

ROBBER IS HIT
Armed Men Flee With Newspaper Office Payroll.

DETROIT, June 6.—One policeman is dying, another was shot in the foot and one bandit is believed to have been wounded when six men armed with revolvers and sawed-off shot guns held up the cashier of the Detroit News today and escaped with a payroll estimated at $10,000.

Flee in Auto.

The dying policeman is George Harsted, 28, a traffic officer stationed at Second and Lafayette boulevard. The other officer is Guyot Craig, 29.

Craig said he shot one of the bandits as they started to re-enter their automobile. The bandit fell and was picked up by his comrades and thrown into their car. The bandits kept up a steady barrage of shots all the while. The sextette parked their car—a blue machine—in front of the main entrance to the News building in Lafayette boulevard. One man stood guard on the curb, and four—two in the machine, and two—all young and well dressed—went into the building, carrying their weapons under their coats.

Line Up 100 Employees.

They strolled calmly to the second floor, walked back to the cashier's cage, which is completely surrounded by desks, and isolated in the center of the spacious general business office.

They fired twice into the ceiling, then commanded the 100 employees to (Continued on Page 3, Column 5)

"EVERYBODY" is a big word, but it is a fact that almost everybody is in the "Street," that is to say, speculating in stocks.

The business man, grown rich at something he understands, and trying something that he doesn't understand, may feel sorry for himself later.

The girl with a typewriter in front of her has her few shares, and won't sell when she will have a million.

There is more interest in 7,300 stock exchange tickers than in all the books in all the libraries.

THERE was trembling among tickers and ticker watchers yesterday, when call money, used for speculation, went to 7 per cent, and stocks went down.

"Big People" apparently want to discourage excessive gambling by the little people.

CROPS in the corn belt have taken an upward turn. Rains in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Oklahoma cheer the farmers. The Arkansas River Valley reports, "Wheat will make 25 bushels to the acre."

ALL that is cheerful for the Republican candidate, whoever he may be.

Nothing melts irritation on the farms like good rains, good crops, good prices.

MAY RISK NECK IN FALLS RIDE

AKRON, O., June 6.—Intent on risking his neck by going over Niagara Falls, Jean Lussier, of Springfield, Mass., is trying to interest Akron rubber companies in building the rubber ball in which he intends to make the ride. The design which Lussier presented for the inspection of local men is a rubber sphere eight feet in diameter containing air pockets connected with a central compartment where he will sit.

A "Dare-Devil" by profession, Lussier intends to have the ball taken up in an airplane and dropped into the river half a mile above the falls.

20 OF OHIO'S G. O. P. DELEGATES TO SUPPORT MIDDLE WESTERN MAN

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—Loyal to the memory of their dead leader, Senator Frank B. Willis, 20 members of the Ohio delegation of 51 to the national Republican convention will support a middle western candidate for the nomination for president. According to Col. Ralph Cole, Findley, O., former representative.

Colonel Cole was in Kansas City today to lay the groundwork for the activities of his delegation, which will arrive tomorrow,

Rock and Earth, Slipping From Penn Avenue Hillside, Cover Car Tracks.

TWO INTER-CITY LINKS CLOSED

Ohio River is Rising Two Tenths of Foot an Hour But No Flood Looms.

Highways were blocked, street car schedules disrupted and telephone service throughout the district crippled today as a result of a 48-hour rainfall.

A mass of earth and rock, estimated at several hundred cubic yards, slipped from the hillside to Pennsylvania avenue near the old clay bank at the top of the hill leading from East End at 7 o'clock this morning, covering the street car tracks and highway. Large bill boards, owned by the Ceramic Poster Advertising company, were wrecked by the slide.

The highway between Midland and Beaver was also blocked by a landslide, although the street car tracks at this point were open. The road between East Liverpool and Wellsville, is closed by a slip near Walkers. The "Narrows" west of Wellsville, is also reported closed by a slip.

Transfer Car Passengers.

A gasoline shovel and a force of trucks are removing the slip in Pennsylvania avenue, which has been closed to vehicle traffic. Traction officials expected to have one track opened this afternoon but the slip will not be entirely cleared away before tomorrow. A transfer arrangement is in effect. The slip on the Wellsville-East Liverpool road is not interfering with street car schedules but vehicle traffic is being routed over the camp-ground road.

First cars over the hilltop routes were delayed this morning because of dirt and debris which covered the tracks at several points. These obstructions were caused by the heavy rain at midnight.

Telephone company officials estimated approximately 100 telephones were out of commission as a result of the storm. Toll lines to Steubenville were broken by the slide which occurred on the "Narrows" road below Wellsville, but communication to the down-river city was re-established this morning.

River Reaches 17 Feet.

The Ohio river, rising at the rate of two-tenths of a foot an hour, at noon registered more than 17 feet. Lock men at Dam No. 8 expressed the opinion that the water would not approach a flood stage.

The rainfall gauge at Dam No. 8 this morning showed three and one half inches since 3 o'clock Monday morning. The rain is said to have been general in the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio valleys.

FELSTEAD, 30-1, DERBY WINNER

Outsider Victor in Famous Race at Epsom Downs.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
EPSOM, Eng., June 6.—More than a quarter of a million spectators, including most of the members of the Royal family and hundreds of American tourists, saw Felstead, an outsider with Jockey J. Wragg up, win the world famous derby on Epsom Downs this afternoon.

Flamingo ran second and Black Watch, one of the five favorites, finished third. Felstead paid 33 to 1.

The "hot favorite" of the turf experts—Lord Derby's Fairway—failed to get within the money.

and which, according to Colonel Cole, will oppose to the last ditch the nomination of Hoover.

"We'll stand for anyone except Hoover," Colonel Cole said. "Lowden is acceptable; so is Curtis. The nominee must be a middle western man."

"For the first time in the history of American politics, the Republican nomination is controlled absolutely by a group of states in the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri valleys."

SOLONS PLAN COURT ACTION IN FIGHT OVER TRAFFIC DUMMY

Mandamus Proceedings Against Service Director Hinted.

MAY ACT TONIGHT

Order Removal of Standards at Four Intersections.

A court action to compel Service Director John W. Moore to remove four "dummy" traffic standards in the downtown district and the watering trough at the intersection of St. Clair avenue and Avondale street, will be considered at another adjourned session of city council tonight.

A resolution, which directs Solicitor Frank H. Hoover to institute mandamus proceedings in the Columbiana county common pleas court to force Moore to remove the standards, was ready for consideration at last night's adjourned meet. However, council deferred action until tonight, and today the legislation is being redrafted so as also to include the watering trough.

Two weeks ago council instructed the director to remove the standards, it being claimed that the one at the corner of Fifth and Market streets caused confusion.

Questioned by Councilman Lindell Monday night, the director refused to "commit."

Block Rule Suspension.

The resolution, which is to be acted on tonight, declares the standards to be a nuisance. In addition to the "dummy" at Fifth and Market, a third is located in the Diamond at Sixth street and a fourth at the intersection of St. Clair avenue and Broadway.

The city fathers were in session for less than 10 minutes last night, when the ordinance accepting the Adam & Craig plat of the Alfred Fisher addition was passed on second reading. Councilmen Lindell, Frost, Altman, Ferguson and Fleming supported the ordinance, while Solons Green and Hughes voted against it. The negative votes blocked an attempt to suspend the rules. The measure will be considered on the last reading tonight.

NEW SCOUT UNIT SEEKS CHARTER

Application for a charter was filed at local Boy Scout headquarters today by sponsors of the Second Christian church troop.

Nine members of the troop have passed the tenderfoot test. Dana Wolfe has been named Scoutmaster, with Jerome Haney as his assistant. The troop committee includes Ralph C. Kirchner, Floyd Smith and Hazel Rosenbaum.

This will make the 15th troop in the East Liverpool district.

Mass meetings of ex-service men will be held at Kansas City and Houston prior to the conventions.

BURGLAR GETS $38,000 BONDS

Robber Loots Home in Which Salesman Was Guest.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 6.—Bonds worth $38,000, belonging to Richard Mueller, employed by an Arlington, W. Va., firm were stolen early today by a burglar from the residence of Harold J. Cook where Mueller was a guest.

The burglar broke into the Cook residence by jimmying an upstairs window, according to police. Members of the family heard the noise and turned in an alarm.

When police arrived the thief had escaped, taking with him two suitcases, one of which contained the bonds.

SALEM HIGH TEACHER IS NAMED DIRECTOR OF COUNTY SCOUT CAMP

Paul Stratton, teacher of biology in the Salem high school and an expert in nature study, was today named assistant director of the Columbiana county Boy Scout camp, which will be maintained at Eagleton's Glens, Salem-Lisbon road, this summer.

Stratton will be assisted by Hugh Nile, Wellsville, and Fred Detwiler, Columbiana, who will serve as camp leaders and life guards.

Wet Weather Handicaps Members of 14 Team in One-day Budget Canvass.

Handicapped by wet weather, Y. M. C. A. budget campaigners, in a one-day canvass yesterday, fell $852 short of their $15,000 goal.

HENRY GRIMM, 60, ENDS LIFE WHEN HIS WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

Road House Owner Despondent Over Estrangement.

OUTWITS OFFICER

Constable Tries to Knock Bottle From Man's Hands.

Failing in an attempt to effect a reconciliation with his wife from whom he had been separated, Henry Grimm, 60, road house proprietor near Salem, took poison and died at 5:30 o'clock last night, according to police.

Drains Two-ounce Bottle.

Constable J. E. Ritchie, Salem, tried to knock the bottle from Grimm's hand but failed. Grimm died before a physician could be summoned.

According to Ritchie, Grimm, whom his wife recently sued for divorce, went to the wife's home last night to secure clothing. While the husband and wife talked, Ritchie, who accompanied the man, stood outside.

A few minutes later, Grimm, Ritchie said, ran from the house and drained a two-ounce bottle which contained poison.

Grimm, for many years, operated a restaurant in Broadway, Salem.

Forestry Program Being Prepared By Walton League

CHICAGO.—The most far reaching forestry program and wild-life protection campaign ever undertaken by the United States has been assured, in the opinion of officials of the Izaak Walton League of America, at national headquarters here.

The Woodruff-McNary and the Sweeney-McNary bills, relating to forestry, and the Bear River Marsh bill, for flooding alkaline marshes in Utah, were cited by Seth E. Gordon, conservation director of the league, as examples of legislation recently passed by congress for conservation.

"Congress, in authorizing a definite program of forest purchases wild life research, has abandoned the hit-or-miss methods and placed a tremendously important undertaking of forest growth on a basis compatible with the nature of the project," Gordon said.

Sweeping List of Dress Regulations Posted in Churches

LIMERICK, Ire., June 6.—Irish women have been startled by a sweeping list of dress regulations which have been posted in the Catholic churches at Ennis, County Clare.

The regulations prohibit any woman or girl from entering a church if her dress is more than four inches above the shoes; if her neck line is lower than the collar-bone, and if the sleeves do not cover her arms as far as her wrists.

Further, no one wearing a frock of transparent material can enter the church unless she is wearing a non-transparent slip beneath it.

East Liverpool — America's Pottery Center.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6, 1928.

Honor Roll City

Once more East Liverpool has won a place on the honor roll of Ohio cities which reported a per capita sale of 10 in the Christmas Seal campaign.

Report read at the annual meeting of the Ohio Public Health association in Columbus this week showed that the Ceramic City was among eight cities, including Shelby, Port Clinton, Delphos, Jackson, Wellston, Urbana and Findlay, which were recognized for special work in the annual drive to raise funds to combat the spread of tuberculosis.

Thanks to the efforts of Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman of the health committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs which has sponsored the movement here, East Liverpool has missed the honor roll but once—during the year of the pottery strike—since Christmas seals have been sold in the state.

This record speaks well for the health work that has been done through the sale of the penny adhesives, for through the community's share of the receipts several tuberculosis sufferers have found the road to good health. In addition, this fund also provides the means of paying part of the salary of the public health nurse. And this year the scope of activities of the state and city organizations is to be enlarged, for the Ohio Public Health association has decided to deal with all problems of health in the future, rather than limiting its work strictly to fighting the white plague.

This is a worth-while movement and deserves support.

Lakes-To-Ocean Route

A boat from Liverpool recently arrived at a Lake Michigan port with pig-iron. This is said to be the first time since 1918 that an overseas shipment has reached so far inland without transshipment. Thus freight steamers capable of making Atlantic voyages find harbor facilities in the Great Lakes—in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and other far-inland communities.

However, difficulty is encountered by these ocean-going vessels in negotiating the passage from the Atlantic seaboard to the lake ports. The government appears to be converted to the St. Lawrence route for a connecting waterway of sufficient depth to enable the largest steamers to reach the lakes.

The argument so far in favor of the St. Lawrence route has considered only the handling of freight, it also would be possible, if this project were realized, for ocean-going passenger vessels to make the Great Lakes cities ports of call, just as they do at New York, or Havre, or any other seaport.

The east has fought the idea of a direct waterway from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes because the east desires to monopolize ocean trade, and the railroads likewise, because a through water route means less freight movement by rail.

Canada has met this country half-way on the St. Lawrence project, and progress is reported. A channel of sufficient depths to permit the entry of all classes of seagoing craft will not be realized for several years, but at the moment every bit of pressure exerted in the direction of speeding up the program puts East Liverpool and other northeastern Ohio communities that much closer to cheaper transportation and a direct carrying system for their export business.

Congressman W. W. Chalmers of the Ninth Ohio district, one of the most zealous workers for the St. Lawrence project, recently reported to congress that considerable progress has been made to date in connection with the lakes-to-the-ocean route. All minor difficulties appear to have been overcome, a treaty has been approved whereby Canada will permit the United States to proceed with the construction of the waterway, and actual work may be expected to start at any time.

The value of such a waterway will be untold in this part of the country. Villages will spring into cities, and cities will treble in population as industries spring up and warehouses are erected and factories are built to handle the shipping which will be there when the first boats dock.

No small item in connection with the waterway, and one which cannot be overlooked, is that of power which the St. Lawrence project will make possible of development. Cheap power means more industry. And with the power which this waterway will develop—or cheap power—it will be possible for manufacturers to expand at an amazingly rapid rate.

Clean Roadside Stands

At this season of the year Ohio takes to the open road. Anything on wheels, which will carry one to some distant point, and return, is pressed into service. The open road calls. Touring is one of the great out-door sports.

But there is on thing which the tourist encounters in his wanderings that should be remedied before the season is much older. That is the dirty side-of-the-road lunch stand—the hot dog emporium and the soft drink place.

Nowadays these lunch rooms, or stands, are to be found every few hundred feet. They spring up, mushroom-like, on every highway and byway. Some are ornate—resplendent in immaculate coats of paint. Others disgrace the communities in which they are located, and are a sad commentary on the laws of the state which regulate eating places.

It is an easy matter to keep the lunch stands clean. Less paint on the outside and more elbow grease on the inside will do away with much of the filth which is permitted to accumulate, attracting flies and menacing the motoring public, not only of Ohio, but of other states.

If the general public will not patronize such objectionable roadside eating places, they will thrive for only a few days and will disappear for lack of business. But the public does not get much of a glance into the interiors of these places. Many motorists stop at the roadside, and are served. Thus the owner of the filthy eating place gets away with a violation of the law, and may be responsible for starting an epidemic.

The city and state can enforce the letter of the law and compel owners to keep these places clean, or close them. It is time now to get busy.

Now for "Lady Lindy" headwear.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., JUNE 6.—When Maryland farmers and their families paid their annual visit to their state university they found both instructive exhibits of what the university is doing and warm hospitality.

From the classrooms for the classics and laboratories for experimentation to the scientifically designed wayside market and economically planned wardrobe for the college girl everything was arranged not only to demonstrate the work of the university but the importance of the place it holds in the lives of all. A dinner was served to the 6000 guests that was the wonder of Maryland housewives.

Those who had come before saw the latest developments in the research and progress of each department, and newcomers, among whom were Maryland editors and members of the Maryland Press Association, saw these and learned the history and functions of their state institution of higher education.

Resident instruction is one of the four-fold functions of that part of the University of Maryland at College Park. For the instruction and welfare of the students a staff of instructors, classrooms and laboratories, houses of residence, a dining hall, laundry, gymnasium, and athletic field are maintained. In the Fall, Washingtonians and Baltimoreans adjourn to the stadium for football, and in the Spring for baseball and the big track meet.

History, philosophy, psychology, mathematics, economics, both our own and foreign languages and literature, and the courses of the different colleges together with fraternities, cheers for the team, handbooks that guide the verdant freshman, and yearbooks that tell of achievements of seniors, all against the background of the rolling green campus and Early American buildings, contribute to the process that turns out the capped and gowned graduate.

The Maryland Experiment Station is another division of the functions of this university. Under it investigations and experiments in agriculture are carried on by means of funds from both the state and federal government.

Through the extension service, a third division, cooperating with the state and federal governments, county and home demonstration agents are maintained. Rural living as well as agriculture form the basis of their work. Every farmer and his family by this link with the university and state federal agencies may learn both the fundamentals and newest methods of caring for stock and fields and of obtaining comfort and style in their homes.

The state board of agriculture to further efficiency and economy maintains its inspection and control service, the fourth division, in close connection with the various university departments. By this cooperation it is possible to enforce regulations which demand quarantine against plant and animal diseases and parasites, control of bovine T. B. and hog cholera, and inspection of seeds, feeds, and fertilizers to see that they are all that they were advertised to be.

Not only the farmer but the suburbanite is affected by the work of the College of Agriculture. Whereas, the man with broad acres profits by the tests made over a period of thirty-seven years on wheat, every owner of a lawn benefits by the testing of various kinds of grass.

Some of the young women in the university study home economics. In addition to preliminary courses necessary for a B. A. degree, intensive work in chemistry and physics, and experiments in running a home or an institution, qualify them to teach, go into business, or become leaders in their communities. During their senior year they live in and run a model home for a period of weeks. As in agriculture and engineering the benefits of this branch of the university are disseminated over the state by the departments which cooperate with the state and federal governments.

Just as one of the greatest features or stunts of the circus is the way it moves itself, so is the way the university provides for its guests a noteworthy feature. Serving dinner in three hours' time to some 6000 people is no elementary school task. It might be called collegiate to order, prepare, and serve nearly 750 pounds of beef, 500 pounds of boiled bone-ham, salad made from twelve barrels of potatoes, 200 pounds of potato chips, and all the trimmings including 6000 rolls and 25 pounds of butter, 60 gallons of pickles, 20 gallons of oil, and cream and sugar enough to flavor coffee made from 100 pounds of the bean.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Twentieth century progress seems to have vanished the last of Manhattan's aristocrats. Their homes have come down in a rush to make way for skyscrapers, and they have scattered to nobody seems to know where.

They held fast to old customs and never gave in to the new. The Gotham of jazz, flappers, night clubs and other tinsel fold-out was unknown to them. They were as much sticklers for convention as thoroughbred British officers who dress for dinner in the loneliness of the African veldt.

The older men clung to shoulder capes, square-crowned derbies, lawn string ties and gold-knobbed canes. The ladies were frail and faintly bit of lavender and old lace who had the vicar for tea every week. And drove in the park every afternoon in four wheelers, shading their faces with little black parasols.

Servants were loyal old hasbeens whose uniforms turned green from years, but whose shabby gentility bespoke a devotion this generation does not know. Some had not received a penny of salary for years. Nor did they expect to.

The vanished aristocrats lived in the gloomy, decaying old brownstone fronts behind whose murky windows many ancestors died of putrid nursing gout. Neighbors knew them only as tottering and shadowy figures who slipped wraith-like across the sidewalk to closed carriages.

A thin light might be seen for an hour after dark in the hallway, but after that the homes were dark, silent and desolate. There were inevitable pantomimes like the monthly call of the family lawyer with his ponderous brief case and the grave family council in the front parlor.

Time brought a touching dignity not only to the ancient homes, but to the occupants. Their attitude toward the polio was that of fishy-eyed indifference, but aroused no resentment. They were spectral of a glorious past—the last of the aristocrats.

Jewelry houses used to be victimized by crooks who ordered rare gems sent to their hotels on consignment. This often resulted in a whiff of chloroform and a getaway. Heavy consignments—one to accompany the messenger into the room, another to stand outside the door and the third to stand on guard in the lobby.

The guards who stand in spacious and lofty bank towers these days are as formidable looking as the Fifth Avenue traffic cops. They used to be garrulous old fellows with white mustaches, but today they are young, trim and athletic looking. The one in the orphan check department of my bank—where most of my business is transacted—is a crack athlete three years out of college. He tells me two of his fellow guards are expert boxers.

Comedy of errors which might have had serious consequences took place in a certain hotel last week. It was the result of a mistake of an elevator boy and an unlatched door. A gentleman arriving late was accidentally let off one floor below that where his apartment is. He undressed hurriedly in the bathroom so as not to disturb his wife. After getting into his pajamas he tiptoed to their joint bedroom and whispered: "Are you asleep dear?" As there was no answer he assumed she was and slipped into his twin bed. The next morning he was awakened by a scream. A strange lady was yodeling for help. It developed her husband was out of town. She had not heard the stranger enter her apartment. Had she not unintentionally left her door unlatched it would not have happened. It took some time to untangle the affair—including tall explaining to the hotelier's wife, who had slept innocently through it all in the apartment overhead.

"When I used to pay you a salary," writes a former employer, "I often wondered if you earned it." I suppose I didn't, but I never before realized it was a salary. I always looked upon it as a tip.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Through the kidneys pass nearly one half of all the waste products of the body. Since all body wastes, and especially such as go through the kidneys, are poisons, you can see how necessary it is that there shall be no interruption in their passage.

In Bright's disease the function of the kidneys is disturbed, and no longer can they eliminate the nitrogen products, known to the doctors as urea, uric acid and ammonia. If the disease cannot be relieved speedily, there must be an immediate reduction in the intake of foods rich in nitrogen.

At the same time, the life of the patient must be so regulated that there will be the least possible demand for protein food. This means placing a limitation upon the amount of physical exertion.

I have explained to you that food is taken for two purposes—to supply energy and to keep the tissues in repair. The latter function is performed by the protein. Of the proteins, the best examples are lean meat and the whites of eggs.

In the severe and acute forms of Bright's disease, milk may be the only food safe to give. Even this may be too rich in protein. Water should be administered freely. To this may be added sugar, cereals, gruel, and possibly, bread. Buttermilk and oatmeal may be useful.

If milk is well borne, it will supply all the nourishment needed. As the case progresses, vegetables may be added, and in due time, perhaps a limited amount of meat.

The chronic form of Bright's disease is a difficult condition to treat. It lasts for years and the diet must be regulated carefully all this time. There is a choice in the method of cooking the meat. Since the juices seem to contain the harmful elements, broiled and roasted meat, and meat soups are to be avoided. Boiled meat, especially if twice boiled, is far safer, even if less palatable.

Ham, contains much less protein than beef, but, of course, it has enough to be avoided. Oysters are low in protein content, as also are salmon, and some other fish, except Cod and shad, and may be taken in moderation.

Fruits and green vegetables, the cereals and other carbohydrates—including sugar and the starches—milk, cream, sweet cider, unfermented fruit juices, vichy, tea and coffee in moderation, the yolk of the egg, potatoes—all these are safe to give.

The bowels must be kept open and the skin must be active. Frequent baths, gentle exercise, warm climate and mental poise are helpful.

With proper care and diet, the natural expectation of life may be looked forward to if the treatment is begun early. A long and useful life may be counted on if the right care is exercised.

Please bear in mind that we have been discussing diet in the treatment of actual disease of the kidneys. Do not form the opinion that I look upon meat eating as a hazardous procedure for healthy persons. I do not so regard it.

It used to be thought that excessive meat eating is responsible for Bright's disease. That is believed no longer. Infection from pus centers or from fever are the chief factors contributing to this ailment.

For persons in good health, meat and other proteins are very essential to the bodily welfare.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Because you want to be popular you have become one of the "yes" men. And if you have followed this course through life, perhaps you are beginning to realize that your opinion is no longer sought on important matters.

You don't like to think, so you agree with those you wish to impress or you follow the majority, rather than make the extra effort it requires to form a practical, sound opinion of your own.

Can you bring to mind a single man who has been a success who has not had opinions of his own and was not afraid to express them?

When circumstances demand your ideas, be ready with them.

If you have not advanced as you should it may be that your employer feels that you are too prone to agree with him.

The right kind of employer wants a man who has ideas that are helpful. He wants a man who will do as directed, of course.

But also he wants a man who has an honest opinion and who will give it to him when asked in the interests of business.

The "yes" man is of no special help to him when he needs advice. Copyright, 1928, International Future Service, Inc.

MISS EVA MAY BAILEY BECOMES BRIDE OF EDGAR M. PITTENGER

Pretty Ceremony is Solemnized in First Baptist Church at Noon.

A pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at 11:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church, West Fifth street, when Miss Eva May Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Bailey, of Glenmoor, became the bride of Edgar M. Pittenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pittenger of the Lincoln highway. The church was decorated with palms and ferns. The ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the church, and Rev. J. H. Lawther, of the First Presbyterian church.

Previous to the ceremony a violin solo, "Berceuse," was played by A. G. Ellis, accompanied by Mrs. Ruby Aley Pickard, after which Mrs. A. G. Ellis sang "Oh, Promise Me." To the strains sang Lohengrin's Wedding march played by Mrs. Pickard, the bridal party took their places. During the ceremony Mrs. Pickard played "To a Wild Rose," by MacDowell.

The attendants were Miss Nancy Fischer and Leland Pittenger, a brother of the bridegroom.

The ushers, members of the Amona class of the First Baptist church, included Mesdames Ida Lambright, Dorothy Smith, Ina Pace, Bertha Porter, and Thelma Glyder, and Misses Geraldine Monday and Aletha Vaness. They wore pastel shaded dresses.

The bride, who is a graduate of the local high school with the class of 1929 and of Kent State Normal school with the class of 1924, was gown in ivory bride's satin, with seed pearl trimming. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses and baby breath. Previous to her marriage she taught the third and fourth grades in the Glenmoor school.

The bridesmaid's gown was of peach georgette, and she carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was held in the home of the bride's parents. Fifty guests were in attendance. The breakfast was served by Mrs. Bailey, assisted by Mesdames F. E. Fisher, John Reese, C. J. Shaffer and C. H. Moore and the ushers. The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake and tapers. A color scheme of pink and white predominated in the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Pittenger left this afternoon for a motor trip to Niagara Falls and lake cities. After July 1 they will be at home to friends in the Lincoln highway. The bridegroom is employed by the American Sheet & Tin Plate company in Wellsville.

Sacred Heart Church Gives Party.

Eighteen tables of bridge, 500 and euchre were in play last evening when ladies of the Sacred Heart Catholic church of Chester entertained in the church hall. The committee in charge included Mesdames Cella Johnston, Frank Finley and Maude Megalley.

Trophies were awarded as follows: Bridge, Mrs. James Duffy and Miss Helen O'Rourke; 500, Mrs. A. C. Bloom; Euchre, Miss Margaret Schneider, Orin Bowles and H. A. Keener; euchre, Mesdames James Calihan and Lawrence Gilbert and Clell Kennedy and Daniel Jackson.

A bazaar will be held by the ladies of the church about the middle of June.

SATISFY INNER MAN TO STOP CHICAGO CRIME

Good Meals Believed Solution of Windy City Problem.

CHEFS WILL ACT Hints Given Owners of Restaurants by J. F. Weintz.

CHICAGO.—Good meals—there lies the solution of Chicago's crime situation, on no less authority than the men who make good diners and, furthermore, sell them.

They have decided, the association of Chicago restaurateurs, that theirs is a serious burden, bound with the happiness of the commonwealth.

A luscious porthouse, administered at the psychological moment, they believe, will turn a man from thoughts of suicide and convince him the world's a pretty good place after all.

Chicken a la king, with the proper amount of mushrooms, will make a good girl out of a jobless young lady, when she is on the verge of seeking illegal livelihood.

At Crime Peak. Roast beef and boiled potatoes, supplied at the right time and place, will stop the crime wave at its peak.

Lebsters newburgh will turn the thoughts of a utility magnate from ten cent fares to Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

Most of these encouraging thoughts about cooking done by restaurants were sponsored first by J. F. Weintz, business manager of the Sales Management Magazine, speaking to a gathering of Chicago cooks and restaurant owners.

"The restaurant keeper and his cook have a grave responsibility to mankind," was the burden of Weintz's message.

"They are the fellows who have the job of making mankind good by making mankind happy. When a man comes into a restaurant, he wants not only to get some nourishment under his belt, but he wants to soothe his soul."

"A bad dinner may make a man beat his wife, fire his stenographer, kick his dog and then jump in the lake."

"But give him a good meal and he is ready to take the world to his arms."

Politics, too, may be affected by meals, especially in large cities like Chicago and New York where a large proportion of the meals are eaten in restaurants, it is pointed out.

Voting on Hamburger. "Feed a man on half raw hamburger and cheese sandwiches and if he is a Republican he will go out and vote a straight Democratic ticket."

"Give him indigestion and he will cry about the government and cheer for communism. But give him a perfect steak garnished with onions and he can't work up a bit of sweat over the terrible state of the republic."

But at least one Chicago restaurant owner believes the responsibility for eating good meals lies with the diner himself.

"Men come into a place where they can get a good meal," says Walter L. Gregory, manager of the Palmer House. "Then they grab a sandwich, bolt it down and hurry out."

"What hope can you have of feeding the people right when they won't order good food you have for them?"

Leather Shortage Laid to Demand From China, Mexico

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., June 6.—The startling revelation that the present world shortage of leather is partially due to the fact that people in China and Mexico have just discovered that there are such things as shoes, was made by a delegate to the Federation of Boot Trades Associations here.

"People who have never worn shoes before," he declared, "have now taken to them."

"Large quantities of footwear are now sent from Russia to China and Germany is exporting to Mexico."

"Another cause of the shortage of boot leather," he continued, "is the large amount used for upholstering motor cars."

Lizard Tennis Shoes Now.

Europe's latest ideas in the spending spree for footwear are tennis shoes in grey lizard and glass kid in striking colors, while buck shoes will have overlays in tan calf and various skins. White canvas or plain white buck are considered too "cheap."

British India bought more than $67,000 worth of electric fans from American firms last year.

LONDON HONORS EARLY FLIER

Royal Aero Club to Give Banquet to A. V. Roe.

LONDON.—The Royal Aero club has decided to give a banquet to A. V. Roe, famous British pilot and aircraft manufacturer, to commemorate the 21st anniversary of his first flight. Roe was the first Englishman to fly, and his flight in 1907 was the first ever made in the British Isles. It took place at Brooklands, and his machine was a biplane driven by a 7 horsepower motorcycle engine.

As a result of this feat, Roe was requested by the authorities to leave Brooklands, as nothing but danger could be seen in his further experiments.

Soon afterwards successful flights in foreign countries and the crossing of the Channel by Blériot convinced the world that there was something in aviation, and Roe returned to the first and most successful flying schools in the country.

Since the war, the firm of A. V. Roe & Co., has been one of the leading aircraft concerns in the world, and among its successes have been the 1,000 h. p. Avro-Napier, the first machine in the world with a 1,000 horse power engine.

Scotch Boys "Birched."

Old-fashioned "birching" or whippings were recently meted to six boys from nine to 13 years old, in a court at Edinburgh, Scotland. They were given three stripes each. They threw stones at a passenger train breaking 13 windows in coaches and engine.

Germany is to have a $2,000,000 concern employing 5,000 people which will make nothing but mouth organs.

Hesitation Law Causes Slump in Coast Marriages

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 6.—A California maid, once she's selected her man, won't be kept waiting, either at home or the church. It is shown by the 1927 marriage analysis made public by L. E. Ross, chief of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

With the new three-day hesitation marriage law in effect during the last five months of the year, romance went into an eclipse in all but twelve of California's counties during 1927 according to Ross.

The girls either hopped to Reno or other out-of-state marriage havens and thereby avoided three days of sober contemplation, as intended by the new law, or they called off all bets and gave their Romances the gate, the state expert declared.

The marriage total for the year slumped to 53,487, as compared with 56,664 during the preceding twelve months.

Her Dreadful Past

Convicted, an outcast, marked for life with the brand of patricide.

.... The amazing true story of a girl patricide

PERHAPS you recall reading in the newspapers the case of Gretchen, the girl Sphinx. It was the piteous, sordid story of a girl who put poison in her father's coffee and then, through a long drawn-out trial, steadfastly refused to utter a single word in her own defense, preferring to take whatever punishment the court decreed rather than describe to the jury the terrible details of the soul-destroying life he had forced upon her.

You read of her conviction and incarceration and there, so far as the public was concerned, the story ended.

But really it was only the beginning—the opening episode of one of the most amazing human dramas ever enacted.

In prison Gretchen became a human automaton: she performed her duties in utter silence; she would not talk with the other girls nor with the attendants; nothing amused her, nothing interested her; she kept completely to herself, rigidly, dreadfully alone—an outcast marked for life with the brand of patricide.

Then through a twist of circumstance Mary Howard, instructor in an ultra-exclusive girls' seminary, came to the prison to teach the rebellious incorrigibles herded within its walls.

Her heart went out to the little devil-haired, soul-frozen daughter of the slums.

She was kind to her, worked with her, encouraged her, tried in every way to make her feel that she was not a pariah but a girl like other girls.

At first Gretchen feared and distrusted her. Later she thawed a little. And then one night in the seclusion of Miss Howard's room, the dam of her emotions burst and with her head in the kindly teacher's lap, her body wracked with sobs, she told for the first time the dreadful story which, had she told it to the jury, would probably have resulted in her acquittal.

Her story appears in True Story Magazine for July as told by the woman who won her confidence and in the end saved her from herself. It is a complete and detailed account of Gretchen's early years, the events leading up to her dreadful crime, her trial, imprisonment, eventual parole and the glorious success she is now making of her life. You have never read a story like it and probably never will again. Terrible in places but with a supremely happy and satisfying ending it will make you shudder and smile through a mist of tears. It is entitled "Out of the Slums" and appears complete in the July issue True Story now on sale.

Where delay costs money

SOMETHING went wrong in a Sandusky factory. The plant would be tied up until new parts could be obtained, and every hour that production was stopped meant a big loss.

A Cleveland machinery house was called by telephone, and the needed parts were rushed to Sandusky. Next morning, the plant was in operation.

When you telephone, you get an answer to your questions at once. If you know the number wanted, you usually can reach the most distant places while you hold the line—often in less than a minute.

The cost of out-of-town telephone service is surprisingly low, as the rates on a few typical calls will show. For instance, calling by number during the day from Columbus to Dayton costs only $.55; Columbus to Cleveland, $.85; Columbus to Indianapolis, $1.05; Springfield to Detroit, $1.05; Zanesville to Pittsburgh, $.75; Steubenville to Columbus, $.85; Columbus to New York, $2.30; Dayton to Chicago, $1.35.

HOOVER CHIEFS WIN 35 SEATS IN CONTESTS

Machine Victor in First Test at Kansas City.

LOSE TWO VOTES

Negro Leaders From Louisiana Given G. O. P. Places.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—Rolling smoothly along like a high-powered and luxurious limousine, the Hoover machine was pointed today toward a sweeping and well-nigh complete victory in its first big test against the field, which was provided by the 73 delegate contests before the Republican national committee.

Victorious on the first day, equally victorious on the second, the Hoover managers swung into the third day apparently in supreme control of the party mechanism. There appeared to be no stopping them.

The contests are half over. Thirty-seven of them have been heard and judged by the national committee and Hoover has won 35 of them. His managers could, in fact, have won the other two had they cared to exert their strength, but for future organization reasons they chose to seat two influential negro leaders from Louisiana.

The moral effect of this steady succession of victories probably is more important than the 35 seats themselves, important as they may be when the balloting stage is reached for one thing, it has given the Hoover managers "the winning habit," and for another it has afforded them the opportunity they wanted to get their machine operating smoothly and without friction.

In comparison with the easy efficiency of the Hoover organization, the opposition has appeared unorganized and to a considerable extent leaderless. At least, there has been no unity of direction.

Control National Committee.

Kansas City is undoubtedly filled with party captains who do not want to see Herbert Hoover nominated next week and more of them are arriving on every train. But there is no organization among them, and there is no comprehensive plan for "stopping" him outside of the rather nebulous "Draft Coolidge" movement sponsored by Charles D. Hilles of New York, and the somewhat hazy plans for a gigantic mass meeting of farmers in a tented city here during the convention.

The Republican national committee, of course, is not the Republican national convention, and the fact that the Hoover forces control the committee is no conclusive proof that they can equally control the convention but the committee members are representative of the party machines in their various states, and it is a brave committee that deliberately files in the face of his state sentiment. Those who do are usually not members of the committee very long.

In the case of these contests, the members have voted almost invariably in line with the known sentiment of their respective states. The committee men from Hoover states in every instance have supported Hoover contestants; the members from anti-Hoover states like Indiana and Illinois and Iowa have invariably voted for their opponents.

A few have been found on both sides of the fence. W. M. Butler, the chairman, is one of these. Massachusetts is uncommitted, but is expected to go for Hoover, with Butler included.

"Defeatist" Line of Attack

In the face of this superior Hoover organization and tactics, as revealed in one instance by seven Hoover campaign managers obtaining proxies and voting as members of the national committee, the opposition has fallen back with uncommon vigor upon the "defeatist" line of attack.

"Hoover can't be elected against Smith," is the cry of the opposition. It can be heard in every hotel lobby in Kansas City.

George Brennen, the Democratic "Boss" of Illinois, is being quoted as saying that Smith will carry Illinois "Hands down" against Hoover in November. Other prominent Democrats are being similarly quoted, and the anti-Hoover people from the corn belt are button-holing new arrivals and telling them of the dire things that will happen if Hoover is nominated.

The effect of this defeatist talk remains to be seen. Questionably it will have some effect on delegates, but how much will not be apparent until the convention gets going.

The talk of the Republicans losing Illinois, however, has already had one effect. It has inspired a vice presidential boomlet for Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, whose political stock has risen amazingly since he unhorsed Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson.

Hoover Managers Confident.

So supremely confident are the Hoover managers of their ability to nominate their man next week that not a few of them are giving serious consideration to the vice presidential selection.

Thus far the vice presidential talk has gone in two directions — to the east and to the west. It is argued by some that Hoover being accounted a Californian, an eastern man must be given a place on the ticket for geographical reasons as well as for the reason that Gov. Al Smith is strong in the east. By others it is contended that second place on the ticket in any event must go to the rebellious and discontented grain belt.

Riseberg Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nancy Catherine Riseberg, 97, widow of John C. Riseberg, who died suddenly Sunday morning in her home, three miles south of Lisbon, were held yesterday afternoon in the home in charge of Rev. J. C. Frazier. Burial was made in Lebanon cemetery.

Mrs. Riseberg, who was a lifelong resident of that section of the county, leaves three sons, Frank, Toledo; Ford and Ralph, at home, and three daughters, Mrs. Etta Blakely, Chester, and Mrs. Robert King and Mrs. Thomas Lindesmith, both of Dunganston.

MARATHON HOP ON RIVER BOAT HERE SUNDAY

New Kensington, Pa., Dancers to Avoid Law Conflict.

PLAN OHIO TRIP

Twenty-nine Couples on Floor for Contest.

Scene of the marathon endurance dance, which began at New Kensington, Pa., a few minutes after midnight Sunday, will be transferred to East Liverpool over the weekend in order to avoid conflict with the Pennsylvania "blue laws," according to an announcement of officials of the Garibaldi club, sponsors of the dance.

The dancers will be taken to the excursion steamer Julia Belle Swain, moored in the Allegheny river at New Kensington, Saturday night and transported down the Ohio to East Liverpool, where the dance will be continued aboard the vessel over Sunday. The dancers will be returned to New Kensington Monday morning where the contest will be resumed in Nu Ken Gardens.

Whether the boat will be moored to the river bank in East Liverpool to admit spectators has not been announced.

Twenty-nine of the 30 couples who made the start-off, were on the floor early today, one couple having withdrawn in five hours. Fifteen other couples who filed entry papers failed to appear for the evening.

Winner in the New Kensington contest will receive 10 per cent of the gate receipts, while the second place couple will get five per cent and the third place winners two per cent.

ICE-CUTTER GOES TO AID ITALIA

MOSCOW, June 6.—The Soviet ice-cutter Malgin carrying an airplane and a searching expedition headed by Professor Viza, a famous Arctic authority, is expected to leave Archangel, Russia, Saturday to scour Franz Josef Land for General Umberto Nobile and the other 17 members of the missing Italia expedition.

The expedition will establish an airplane base in the northwest region of Nova Zembla. The plane will be used to verify messages picked up by Russian radio stations, which stated that Nobile had made a safe landing on Franz Josef Land.

HOOVER LEADS IN FIGHT COSTS

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Herbert Hoover led the field in both parties in the amount of money received and spent in a tabulation of campaign funds announced today by the senate presidential funds committee.

The committee listed Hoover's receipts as $339,028.21 and his expenditures as $380,822.11.

Next was Governor Al Smith of New York, who received $120,911.40, and expended $121,471.04.

The 15 candidates examined by the committee received $683,003.72 and expended $721,087.75 to date, the summary showed.

FOKKER PLANS HOP-OFF FRIDAY FOR AUSTRALIA

Southern Cross is Ready for Long Sea Flight.

1,795-MILE JUMP

Pass Over New Caledonia on Third Leg of Hop.

SUVA, Fiji Islands, June 7.—Barring a last minute change in plans, the plane Southern Cross will hop off today from Albert park to Nasselei beach at 11 a. m. (3 p. m. Pacific coast time June 6).

Revising his plans, Captain Kingsford-Smith announced that all three of his flying companions in addition to himself would be in the plane when it takes off from here for the beach from which it is to start its 1795-mile hop to Australia.

The hop-off for Brisbane, Australia, will be made this afternoon at 3 p. m. (7 p. m. Pacific coast time June 6) if there is no mishap.

SUVA, Fiji Islands, June 7.—After a day spent in tireless inspection of beaches and level lands, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of the monoplane Southern Cross, late today selected a long stretch of firm sand at Nasselei, 20 miles from here, as the site for the take-off of the trans-Pacific craft to Brisbane, Australia.

He hopes to take off from Albert park here for Nasselei early tomorrow, flying the Southern Cross for the 20-mile distance, alone.

All day, the flight commander traveled from place to place on the islands, seeking a spot of ground that would prove suitable for the take-off of the huge plane, which will be loaded with 950 gallons of gasoline for the hop to Brisbane.

SUVA, Fiji Islands, June 7.—Fully rested after their hazardous and record-breaking 3,130-mile flight from Hawaii in the trimotored Southern Cross, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions spent the time today in searching for a suitable hopping off place for their flight to Brisbane, Australia, now set for Friday.

Contrary to earlier reports, James Warner and Harry Lyon, the Americans who acted as radio operator and navigator, respectively, on the first two legs of the flight, will accompany Smith and his copilot, Charles T. P. Ulm, to Australia, it was announced here.

Between Suva and Brisbane, on the northeast coast of Australia, lies 1,795 miles of ocean which the Southern Cross must traverse on the third lap of its 7,800-mile course.

At the half-way mark, the big Fokker will pass over New Caledonia, largest of the markers along the course. In case of necessity, a landing might be made on this island.

From New Caledonia to the continent of Australia is open water—another 900 miles of it.

BOSTON ATTORNEY GENERAL RESIGNS

BOS. N. June 6.—Attorney General Arthur C. Reading resigned today.

Ordered impeached by an overwhelming vote of the house of representatives, the attorney general, it was understood, decided to carry his case to the voters at the fall election.

Impeachment proceedings would have been before the senate.

BRITAIN BARS HARRY K. THAW

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., June 6.—Harry K. Thaw, who arrived here from New York on the liner Aquitania, was barred by the immigration authorities and not allowed to land on British soil.

stand up and hold up their hands. All complied.

Two of the thugs scaled the 10-foot wire wall of the cage and dropped inside. The other two kept their guns trained on the employees. The cashier, George Nichol, was covered and prevented from reaching his weapon. The pair picked up satchels containing the payroll envelopes, and climbed back over the cage wall.

As they retreated backward to the head of the stairway, one of the men stuck his gun in the side of the information desk operator, Miss Augusta Hugg, 21, and forced her into a corner until his comrades had passed.

At the bottom of the stairway, the four opened fire across the foyer, clearing the way to the front door. There were a dozen or more persons in the lobby, but none was in range of the bullets.

TODAY

LaFollette's vote dwindled away as the price of wheat went up.

FARMERS who demand a presidential mandate "in favor of farmland equality," really need equality in methods of production. A blacksmith making an automobile with his own hands would vainly demand equality with production on a big scale.

FARMERS, in this age of perfected industry and quantity production, do their own producing, largely, with the methods of 100 years ago.

They will remember that it is easy to make promises. "There shall be in England seven half-penny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hopped pot shall have ten hops; and I will make it a felony to drink small beer."

IN a general way, the public feels that young ladies trying to attract attention might find some better plan than adding their weight to a dangerous trans-Atlantic flight. But there will be sympathy for Miss Earhart, now flying with Pilot Stultz.

WHEN she isn't flying, Miss Earhart is looking after poor children, giving her money and her time. An excellent filer, she has never had an accident and she was one of the first to put capital into the Dennison airport.

THE franc will be stabilized, probably, at four cents. Thousands of French people with incomes from the French government rentes perpetuelles will have their fortune permanently reduced by 80 per cent.

IT IS as though millions of Americans should suddenly find their dollars each worth 20 cents.

France won the war, but war does not pay, even when you win. And that important fact will do more than all the peace treaties to discourage future war.

HELEN WILLS of California beat the best British girl, and is female tennis champion—barring Miss Lenglen, who is a professional and can't compete. In the tournament Miss Wills was never forced to play an extra set. She represents California, and the rest of her country, well.

WILKINS, who flew across the Arctic regions, is now "Sir George H. Wilkins," and his wife will be "Lady Wilkins." The king changes "Mr. Wilkins" into "Sir George" with a few words that cost nothing. To millions of Englishmen those words are worth more than many dollars.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 6.—Strength and activity of the packing stocks, the motors and a few of the industrial and specialties featured the early trading in the stock market today.

Assurance of a plentiful supply of money for speculative purposes around 6 1/2 to 7 per cent. Improvement in railroad traffic, retail business and gasoline statistical position, together with the tenacity of big and little traders in relation to their favorite stocks, stimulated renewed buying of stocks in all sections of the market.

Call money renewed at 6 1/2 per cent, with adequate supplies reported. Armour and Cudahy headed the specialties, all stocks reaching the highest price level of the year the latter advancing about two points. Packard motors, Nash and Hupp continued their spectacular market course, accompanied by new merger rumors. U. S. Steel led a moderate rally in that section of the market, and gained nearly 2 points. Oils were steady, with Standard of New Jersey in the lead. Rails were on the inactive list, though New York Central was in good demand at 180.

Supreme Court Justice Seeks Nomination for Senator.

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the Ohio supreme court, today filed with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown his formal declaration of candidacy for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator to fill the vacancy due to the death of the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis.

The successor to Senator Willis, to be elected next November, will serve from December 15, next, until March 4, 1933.

State auditor Joseph T. Tracy, Republican, also filed his declaration today as a candidate for renomination. If nominated and elected, Tracy would begin his third four-year term as state auditor next January.

Attorney Gilbert Bettman, Cincinnati, filed his declaration at the secretary of state's office late yesterday as a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Judge Marshall's declaration of candidacy for U. S. senator contained the approving signatures of his wife, Mrs. Dora F. Marshall; his daughter, Miss Constance Marshall, who is in charge of his headquarters at the Neil House; W. O. Littick, Zanesville newspaper publisher; Rev. R. R. Ellbrandt, Cincinnati pastor and former resident of Zanesville; Charles McIntire, Zanesville, formerly an official in the state department of agriculture, and Frank Welling, an assistant in the state supreme court clerk's office.

Files for Lieut. Governor.

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Mayor Allen C. McDonald, Dayton, a former member of the Ohio legislature, today filed his official declaration with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown as a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor for the full two-year term beginning January 14, next year.

Senator Lewis Files.

BELLAIRE, O., June 6.—Announcement was made today at the headquarters of the Belmont county election board that Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, had filed his declaration of candidacy for a second term as state senator from the 20th-22nd district, composed of Belmont, Columbiana, Harrison and Jefferson, counties.

But one senator is to be elected from this district this fall.

BULLET IN BACK KILLS OHIOAN

AKRON, June 6.—After reporting for work at the Akron Industrial Salvage company plant here today, John Rafel, 30, suddenly dropped dead. An examination disclosed a fresh bullet wound in the man's back.

Police were baffled by the mystery and were attempting to trace Rafel's movements Tuesday night. While walking to work with a fellow employee this morning, Rafel told him he was about to die but his friend thought he was joking.

PRESIDENT MUST USE FLY BAIT

BRULE, Wis., June 6.—"Mon Dieu!"

This expression burst forth today from the lips of Antoine Dennis, dean of French-Canadian guides on the Brule river when reminded of the fact that President Coolidge used worms in fishing for trout in the Black Hills last summer and probably may try the same kind of bait again this summer in the northern Wisconsin trout streams.

"We only feed with flies—dry flies up here, and if I act as the president's guide, I will teach him how to land the beak ones with a dry fly. And after that you will hear no more about feeding with worms," Dennis said.

POLICE CHIEF TURNS GUNS ON CANNED HEAT

Ask Co-operation of Store to Ban Drink Sale.

TONIC TRADE HIT

Seventy-five Men Regular Customers, is Claim.

Chief of Police Hugh McDermott today asked the co-operation of local stores in halting the sale of canned heat, bay rum and other alcoholic substances for drinking purposes.

"The police department is doing everything possible to break up this practice but cannot stop it without the assistance of dealers," the chief declared. "There are in East Liverpool not less than 75 men who have formed the habit of drinking canned heat, hair tonic, extracts and other articles containing a large percentage alcohol."

One store dealing in canned heat is reported to have sold 50 cases, each case containing a gross, last year. Until recently stores had no restrictions on the number of cans sold to a customer but recently as a means of co-operating with the police clerks were instructed to sell not more than one can to each customer.

The chief claims that the liquid obtained from one can of the "heat" or two ten-cent bottles of bay rum is sufficient to cause intoxication.

The police department head argues that the plan of committing habitual offenders to the county jail is costly to the taxpayers and has only temporary effect. The cost of feeding a prisoner in the county jail until a $50 fine is liquidated is approximately $25.

One store manager has promised Chief McDermott to remove canned heat from his counters, while others have agreed to restrict sales.

200 FIRE CHIEFS AT STATE MEET

MARION, O., June 6.—Threatening weather here today may spoil plans for the afternoon and evening holiday sessions of the Ohio Fire chiefs' association. The 200 members opened their third business session this morning.

Plans for the afternoon and evening include a demonstration of fire fighting apparatus, a picnic dinner and a fireworks display at Crystal Lake park. Marion merchants closed their stores in order to participate in the festivities.

Officers of the association will be chosen tomorrow morning. Robert Ledom, Portsmouth, is said to be one of the leading candidates for president. T. J. McFarland, Marion, is now president.

NOMINATE EBERLE FOR CONGRESS

GALLIPOLIS, O., June 6.—L. L. Eberle is the Democratic nominee for congress from the Tenth district today as result of a meeting of 200 members of the district organization here yesterday.

Eberle was given the nomination after H. T. Houf, president of Rio Grande college, had been chosen but refused to accept because of personal affairs and duties.

Senator Cyrus Locher, George White, Marietta, manager of the Democratic campaign in 1920, and Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, were among those present at the meeting.

Solons Act Again on 17th Street Drainage

Mayor Urges Steps; Believes City Would be Liable for Damages; Riverside Avenue Paving is Threshed Out.

Wellsville solons threshed out the Riverside avenue paving proposition again and took preliminary steps toward the possible construction of a new sewer in Seventeenth and Commerce streets, at their semi-monthly session here last night.

After passing a motion to bring in a determining ordinance for a 30-foot street, by a 4-3 vote, they decided to adjourn until next Tuesday night when they will tackle the problem again.

City Solicitor Knepper failed to attend last night's meeting and it was suggested at first that nothing at all be done with the project but after council members had discussed the merits of the two sides for several minutes, Haugh brought out a motion, seconded by Swearingen, that council bring in a determining ordinance for a 30-foot street.

"Going to ignore those 24-foot street signers are you?" asked Lowary.

"I still maintain," replied Haugh, "that if the city builds a narrow, 24 foot street there, the people in years to come will curse both us and themselves, too."

It makes no difference to me," remarked Keay, "but I think we ought to consider the signers of that petition for 24 feet."

"One of the signers came to me," Haugh declared, "and said she was sure at the time she signed and now she wants to go on record in favor of 30 feet."

C. J. Russell, Seventh and Riverside avenue, expressed himself in favor of a 30-foot street. He asked if solons had observed the increased use of Riverside avenue since the installation of the traffic light at Ninth street. He pointed out that cities everywhere were spending millions to widen streets.

So the motion came to a vote, with Peters, Haugh, Swearingen and Nicholson favoring it, and Lowary, Keay and Reil opposing.

Service Director George Imbrie suggested a beautiful Riverside avenue boulevard, as planned in the engineer's specifications, to be dedicated as a memorial to the soldiers and sailors of this country's wars. He declared he had no personal interest in the paving himself but believed that "here was a great opportunity to do something for the advancement of Wellsville." He asked the question, "Would 24-foot street petitioners be satisfied in the event that all the natural beauty of the thoroughfare be retained?"

Mayor W. L. Fogo urged solons to get together. "No use quarreling over it," he said, "Let's either pave it one way or the other or drop it altogether."

The mayor, too, believed the 30-foot plan would eventually prove better. He repeated Russell's assertion that the custom now is to widen streets as much as possible. He urged council to consider the entire city in its reckonings because they will pay about 15 per cent of the cost. He said the city did not want to destroy the trees there but expected to install a uniform line of trees along the improvement.

While nothing definite was done, the solons agreed to adjourn until next Tuesday.

Action to remedy conditions in the Seventeenth and Commerce district were urged by the chief executive. He pointed out the question had been before council off and on for years. "Because this city has knowledge of conditions there," he emphasized, "the city, in my judgment, would be liable for damage suits."

The improvement, he said, would not be a benefit for just a few but for the entire area between Fifteenth street and Aten avenue. He expressed the belief that the street car company's offer of financial aid would still hold good and suggested a conference. As a result, council passed a motion that the finance committee confer with car company officials and report at the next meeting.

A communication from Pennsylvania Railroad officials cited an estimate of $380,000 for the elimination of the Eighteenth street crossing. The letter was received and filed.

Solons passed a motion instructing the solicitor to draw a resolution accepting J. N. Turner's paving assessment proffer. Turner recently asked an adjustment on a piece of property in Seventh street near Wood and Lisbon. He owes $298, according to councilmen, and will pay $100 if the city will accept it. It was claimed by Turner that the assessment was more than the value of the property.

Following a question of curbs and sidewalks raised by members of the street and light committee, Director Imbrie announced that city officials had discussed the question with the solicitor and had mapped out a definite plan of procedure. The property owner will be asked to correct defects where they exist and will be allowed a specified time in which to make the improvement. If the work is not done in that time, unless for some worthy reason, the city will do

Has He Poisoning?

Possibility that little Louis E. Scott, Jr., of Thomaston, Conn., is a hereditary victim of radium poisoning is worrying his foster parents. His mother contracted the dread poison at the same bench as did the five New Jersey victims, and if physicians confirm their opinion that Louis, born some time after his mother contracted the ailment, has the disease, he may figure in a strange damage suit.

Religious Education Rally at Fairmont

Hancock County Will Send Delegates to State Convention Which Opens June 14.

Church and Sunday school workers of Hancock county will attend the annual district convention of the West Virginia Council of Religious Education to be held in Fairmont on June 14 and 15. Twenty-five counties will be represented.

Dr. Frank McKibben, of the Department of Religious Education of the University of Pittsburgh, will be the principal speaker. Others on the program for addresses are: Rev. Maxwell Hall, secretary of the Washington, O., Council of Religious Education; Miss Mildred Jensen, of Dayton, O.; week day religious training schools; Rev. Minor C. Miller, of Bridgewater college, general secretary of the Virginia council; Miss Iona Haynes, director of children's work, and Z. B. Edworthy, director of young people's work and leadership training for the state council.

"Greater Quests" will be the theme about which the convention will center, and the scheduled addresses will emphasize the need for more work in churches and Sunday schools. The project of the week day religious education schools will be presented by Rev. Hall and Miss Jensen.

The First Methodist Episcopal church of Fairmont has been named as the meeting place of the conference and the sessions are scheduled to open on Thursday morning, June 14, and will continue until the following evening. Illustrated lectures dealing with the World Sunday School convention which will be held at Los Angeles this summer will be features of the evening sessions.

PRESBYTERY WILL MEET JUNE 25

Resume City League Hostilities Tonight; Two Games Slated

Riley Combine Primes For Wellsville Clash

Rivals Tangle at Smith Field; K. T. K.-Madisons Billed at Columbian Park; First Games Since Friday.

Playing on one of the best drained lots in the district, Manager Frank Riley of the Chester City Industrial League club was confident at noon today that the Wellsville-Chester battle, billed for tonight at Smith Field, would be played according to schedule.

Only a cloudburst, or something like it, or rain before and during game time will prevent the engagement.

The Chester-Wellsville tilt is one of two slated for tonight, the other being scheduled between the Madison Billiards and the K. T. K. club at Columbian park with the Billiards as the home club.

The East End lot was not in the best of condition last night but the two teams will try to go through with the engagement. If the infield around third base and down the third base line to the plate, which usually gets the worst of it, is in any kind of shape, the game will probably be played.

The Wellsville club, shut out by Laughlin, 2 to 0, and held to a 1-1 standstill by the Kates in its last two games, will go into the Chester game tonight with a determination to break the spell. The leaders ran into good pitching on both occasions, facing again in the Laughlin shutout and "Baker" of the Kates.

They are only one and one-half game ahead of Turk Nash in second place and in the event they get licked tonight, the defeat would pare another half-game off their lead. A victory for Chester will keep the West Virginians solidly in third place, but a defeat will slip them into a tie with K. T. K.

Cox, Washash college baseballer, may be sent to first base for the Chester-ites tonight and Harold Campbell, West Liberty Normal product, probably will do a little catching. And about next Friday or Saturday Percy Wyant, pitcher and first sacker, who has been in Texas, is expected to join the Riley combine. All three are home boys and have played before with the Chester club.

Ray Wilde will not be in the Chester lineup tonight. Wilde is chaperoning a group of Chester high school students on a trip to Washington, D. C., and will not rejoin the club until probably the first of next week.

The Chester-Laughlin encounter of May 9 which ended in a 5-5 deadlock will be run off on Saturday afternoon at Chester, according to an announcement today by Managers Dickey and Riley.

On Thursday night, Laughlin is scheduled at Turk Nash, and this game, of necessity, will be played at Columbian park.

K. T. K. at Wellsville and Chester at Turk Nash constitute the Friday bill. This latter game is one of the opening day engagements that were postponed.

Joe Dickey's Baseball Defy Finds Taker

New Cumberland Club is Ready for Series.

Manager Joe Dickey of the Homer Laughlin City League club Monday flung a challenge at the Cronin China company's baseball club for a three-game series for the pottery championship of Hancock county.

Today it came right back with an acceptance pinned on to it.

Business Manager Van Fossan of the New Cumberland aggregation, writing the sports editor, says: "Will you please announce that we accept the challenge that Joe Dickey issued in Monday night's paper and explain that the club officers will be up to see him in the near future to arrange said series with the Laughlin Chinas."

Heeney Rickard's Best Bet Now; Just a "Piece of Baloney" Once

Promoter's Sudden Conversion to "Tawm" Remarkable Feature of a Remarkable Story.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, June 6.—It is pleasing to learn that Tex Rickard looks upon Tom Heeney as such an eligible challenger for the heavyweight championship in July because the time was not so far distant when Rickard took Heeney for an order of baloney and in the circumstances he would hate to have an impression like that confirmed. They say Tex is never wrong; so naturally there is nothing to worry about. Heeney must be a great fighter. Even Tex says so. He is awfully difficult to please on a matter of this kind.

Tex Converted.
Rickard's sudden "conversion" to the Heeney cause this spring was, of course, only one of the remarkable features of this man's remarkable story. They couldn't get Rickard to walk across the street to look at Heeney only one year ago. Tex, at the time, was bizz-bazzing with the boys in the front office. He was too smart to walk across the street to look at the New Zealander.

"I asked him to give the lad a look," John Mortimer complained almost tearfully at the time. "All I ask is that he look at Tawm in his 'tries'!" But Tex didn't want to see Heeney in his 'tries', probably being under the impression that the latter had something to do with the young man's apparel. It was Jess McMahon, in fact, who finally dropped around to the St. Nicholas Rink to see what it was all about. His visit led to another interesting sidelight on the situation at that time.

The Heeney board of management had asked Tommy Loughran to "work" with Tom the day before seeing if he had given him the veneering of his life. Midway through the second round, Heeney dropped his hands, braced himself in a corner of the ring and declined to be a party to the further proceedings.

"I'm all befuddled," he is alleged to have observed with some degree of abstraction. "Let me go to my corner."

To Go Easier.
Loughran, much disturbed that he made Charley Harvey's speedmen look like a tramp, promised to "go easier" with him the next day. Loughran was a little behind his scheduled appearance the next afternoon and Heeney was waiting for him in full ring costume.

He was hastening toward the ring when overtaken by Harvey who was trying to be forceful and confidential at the same time.

"Don't go in there, Tommy," he said. "I know we asked you to do it but we don't want you in there with him today. Jess McMahon is here to look him over and we don't want him messed up."

The upshot of the matter was that Heeney got on in a Garden preliminary a few nights later. He won on a technical knockout over Charles Anderson, the first class fifth rater, and the riot was on.

I don't know whether Rickard decided that night that Heeney was a great fighter. Maybe it was later. However, I wouldn't say that he never decided the matter at all, for, in that case, he would be fooling himself badly now and I know Tex would be right miffed at himself if he ever found out about it.

TURK NASH TILTS ON EAST END LOT

Two games scheduled for the Turk Nash City League club the latter part of the week will be played at Columbian park instead of Patterson Field. As a result of rain the Motors have been unable to use the west end lot at all this season.

Homer Laughlin will play Fowler's club on Thursday, and the Chester club will provide the opposition Friday. This latter game is one postponed from the league opening day, May 5.

Half - Million Throng Epsom For Big Race

Lord Derby's Fairway is Played as Favorite.

By Charles A. Smith.
EPSOM, England, June 6.—The 143rd derby—the most famous horse race in the world—drew a record crowd of 500,000 persons, including hundreds of American tourists, to Epsom Downs today. Originally more than 25 thoroughbreds had been entered in this classic, but three were scratched.

The weather was dull this morning but the sun occasionally peeped through the clouds and gave hope that the gloom would be dispelled before the race began. The track was in perfect condition.

There was more than one betting favorite, but keen judges of horseflesh picked Lord Derby's Fairway as the most likely winner. The odds on Fairway were 11 to 4.

Two women stable owners this year sought the honor of being the owners of a derby winner. They were Mrs. Drummond, wife of Captain George Drummond, banker, and Lady Richardson, wife of Sir Lewis Richardson, of South Africa.

Mrs. Drummond entered Gang Warily and engaged Steve Donoghue, one of the best jockeys on the British turf, to ride the colt. Lady Richardson entered Fern Clod and retained Allan Cornelias as jockey.

The race this year was worth $64,000 to the winning owner. The race was over the historic derby course—approximately one mile and one-half long. It was open to three-year-old colts carrying 126 pounds and fillies carrying 121 pounds.

Early odds included the following figures: Fairway, 11 to 4; Flamingo, 6 to 11; Sunny Trace, 15 to 2; Ranjit Singh, 100 to 10; Gang Warily, 20 to 1; Bubbles Second, 18 to 1; Royal Minstrel, 18 to 1; and Black Entry, 30 to 1.

The only American entry, Lovernan, owned by A. K. Macomber, was backed heavily.

Fans Also Get Good Break as "Doubles" Pile up.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The St. Louis Cardinals, New York Yankees and other clubs which are handicapped by injuries are profiting by the rain which yesterday held most of the big league teams idle for the second day in succession. The fans are also getting a good break, for a feast of double-headers is in store for the later in the season.

In the only game played yesterday, the Washington Senators trimmed the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1, with the aid of Braxton's good pitching and homers by Goslin and Reeves.

Cleveland, the only club which gave the Yankees a battle when the western teams of the American league invaded the east, starts a series with the world's champions today. In the National league the Cardinals will try to take second place away from New York; Cincinnati goes to Brooklyn; the Cubs invade Philadelphia and the Pirates take on the Braves.

The first eight rounds, neither fighter exerting himself. In the last two sessions, however, Walker speeded up, driving many hard punches to Jack's body and head.

The Constant Flame

Narrative of Love and Struggle
Against Temptations

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Briefly her mind turned to Kingdon Coles and what he had said on the terrace at Grand View. But he seemed as far removed from her as Mary; the spell the night had conjured was broken now. Only the image of Kent was always vivid.

She snapped off the light and got wearily into bed, forgetting the talk she had meant to have with her sister.

Kitten, coming from the back way, climbing through saplings and locust brush, saw the light go out.

She was all alert now, fully herself, and she had no wish to answer Emily's questions. She tiptoed around but the doors were locked. They thought she was in.

She sat down on a bank to think it over and the grape trellis fastened to a bit of projecting roof over the kitchen caught her eye. She almost laughed aloud; the roof was directly under her window. It was no trick at all for her to do a bit of climbing.

The trellis and the roof and the window loomed large in her life after that.

CHAPTER 22.

Great preparations were being made for Avis Rossiter's marriage.

Emily read of them in the society column day after day, fascinated by the pageantry of the affair which would unite in holy matrimony the son of a fashionable and wealthy New York family, a Dirk Van Alstyne, and the girl who had wished to become the bride of Mary Nolan as a casual wedding down Jersey way.

Now it was that a long list of illustrious guests had arrived and were visiting at the Rossiter's or the Grainger's or had engaged whole floors at the Lyall Inn.

She read all the names—some were very imposing with titles before them and residences mentioned in Paris or Nice or Rome—and wondered if Avis were happy and if she remembered sometimes how she had come down like a princess from her high estate to offer herself to a Nolan. And how the Nolan had sneered.

Old questions tumbled about her. Was ever it possible for two, one of rank and another of lowly station, to meet freely and happily in love? A thing to come one day and sweep them together, raise them above all commonness, all earthly considerations as by soaring wings? Could this happen?

Or was Frances right; that there were no classes really; only human beings traveling on different ways that ran parallel?

Her father did not think so. Indirectly, because of this, he had died. Or was that only Agnes' belief and not her own at all?

She was becoming a little puzzled about this lately. Sometimes when she walked along the River Road, saw the stately villas and luxury there, she felt a stinging resentment curling in some depth of her where it hurt. Over in a second it was, yet strangely like the flick of a lash on shrinking flesh. She fancied it leaving a scar, red and angry.

Frances, keenly intuitive, suspected this. "You're working too hard, Em, my dear. Fatigue puts the way for all sorts of weird fancies. Why not take a little vacation?"

But Emily felt she couldn't go away. The balance in the bank was growing slowly. With her own shop she would be on a different basis.

She thought of this a great deal, especially when Mary wandered up of an evening and sat in the porch swing. She often saw him walking with Anne Morrow, but she cared nothing about that. It kept him away from herself.

She feared, some way, to think of Kingdon Coles. He would be a sort of compromise of all her problems but she didn't like compromises. She was naturally honest.

And she knew she didn't love Coles.

"Like him—oh, yes," she would tell herself. "It's pleasant to have someone as grand as he is in love with you. Can't help feeling sort of proud when he leaves those others, the artists and writers and the Russian woman, because I'm there. But—"

She would remember a tall boy bending toward her in the moonlight, laughing eyes turning serious all at once and a voice saying her name.

A memory; a radiant fancy. But it had taught her what love could be. An incident probably forgotten by Kent Rossiter but one which would change all her life.

The newspaper began to print long accounts of grandeur. For the wedding there would be an altar of white orchids; Miss Rossiter was giving her bridesmaids bracelets of starsapphires; the most famous orchestra in America would play the march.

The bridal gown was coming direct from Paris but the veil would be old lace worn by many generations of Rossiter brides.

There it was again, Emily reflected. Not only wealth but ancestry. Your great-great-grandmother made you somebody. If blue ran in your veins you could get away with anything, even a love affair with a Nolan, and be married afterward like this.

Mrs. Briggs brought over one of the cakes from a pre-wedding festivity and told a shocked tale of the bride-elect.

"She says to the Mister she'd be damned—excuse me Mrs. Day, dear—an' she'd not go through with it. An' he says, 'Very well, it's that or the ranch,' meanin' his place out west somewheres, mind you."

"She took on somethin' terrible but she'll be married all right."

"An' didn't the Grainger baggage step up a-grinnin' 'Buck up, of thing' says she, tough-like. 'A married lady can get away with murder these days,' says she."

Emily thought, curiously, "Why, it isn't a wedding at all! It's just a beautiful play they go through, everyone doing a part, meaning nothing by it. Nothing fine in that. And I've been sort of envying her. Well—"

The next day the Lyall Star said Kent had come home to be Van Alstyne's best man.

Emily caught sight of his name as the paper lay folded on the news stand and her heart went pounding into her throat. She fumbled for coins, put them down with her fingers shaking—carried the paper home.

When she had locked her door she read the item again. Only a line or two; young Mr. Rossiter would leave directly after the wedding for Paris where he was entering the Sorbonne. He had been absent from Lyall, excepting for short visits, nearly six years.

He was coming—he was coming! Would she see him, perhaps? Catch a glimpse of him one day as he went past the shop? Would he know her if they came face to face?

She said "Oh—dimly, and clipped the item. The Japanese box was nearly filled now! She thought that she must get a larger one soon.

On the night of the wedding she coaxed Kitten to walk out the River Road. There were guards by the gateway at Highcliffe and little could be seen save people moving past lighted windows.

Others watched from across the street, and the girls stopped there. They heard the wedding march quite clearly. Emily thought, "Now he is waiting by the altar—"

"Now he is giving them the ring—" "Now he is smiling."

Kitten grumbled, "Gee, wish we could get a look at her. Eight bridesmaids!"

"Oh—bridesmaids—"

Eventually motors rolled away and the watchers went too. For better or worse, till death—or divorce—did them apart, Avis Rossiter and Dirk Van Alstyne were married now. The pageant was over.

"That's that, 'C'mon, Em, what you waiting for? Nothing in your young life what's going on over there."

CHAPTER 23.

Emily believed that, of course.

Nothing that happened or could happen tonight or ever behind the tall gates of Highcliffe: light tip the scales of her life by so much as a hair's breadth. Avis was married and gone; the show was over. She walked away with her sister, not glancing around.

Romance, beauty—oh, a high and holy thing back there. But she had no part in it. Nothing in her young life.

SALEM GIRL O. S. U. EDITOR

Miss Mildred Birch
Chief of Literary Magazine.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—The new editor-in-chief of Apes and Peacocks, literary magazine, for 1928-29, is Miss Mildred Birch, of Salem, who was elected to the position at a recent meeting of Chi Delta Phi, honorary literary sorority, at Ohio State University.

Miss Birch's selection to the editorship was announced at the annual spring initiation banquet of the sorority. The Salem girl, a sophomore, has been a member of the magazine editorial staff since it was established last year. She is enrolled in the School of Journalism and is also a member of the staff of the Ohio State Lantern, daily campus newspaper.

Miss Birch was also named vice-president of the sorority at the banquet. She is the winner of the Vandewater Poetry prize for 1928. Apes and Peacocks is published monthly by members of Chi Delta Phi sorority.

Far East Hits U. S. Films

Agitation against American films is growing in the Far East. Australia has had a commission investigating the motion-picture situation, and may try to ban the importation of films. New Zealand already has a bill similar to England's new quota measure. India and the Netherlands East Indies plan to tighten censorship.

Backed by the government of Chile, hotels will be constructed at Santiago and Vina del Mar, at a total cost of more than $1,000,000.

Pathetic Figures—

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my early teens, and in love with a boy a few years older than I am. I live with my father and grandmother. My father doesn't want me to go with boys. Is it proper for a girl of my age to have a steady boyfriend?

JINKS: I quite agree with your father that you are entirely too young to be going with boys and thinking of love. Now is the time for you to be working hard at your studies, and spending your spare time building up your body at athletic sports. Wait until you are several years older, dear, before you bother about such matters as love and men.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two worried sisters troubled over a love question. Please, help us out. Do you think when one goes out with a boy the other should be present? Our folks say one cannot go without the other; but we realize how a fellow feels when he asks to take one home, to a dance or show, and the other comes trailing along—yes, just lost. The worst is fellows do not ask us for that reason. Tell us if you think it necessary for both to go.

TULIPS: Of course, I understand how you feel, and I can sympathize with you. When a young man is interested in one of you he doesn't like to feel he must entertain both. Why don't you suggest to your mother that she give you a sort of trial—permit you to go out individually, and then, when she realizes you can conduct yourselves properly she won't have any "defense."

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl 17 years of age and I have been going with a young man for two years. I have been engaged to him for nearly that time. About a month ago we broke up, over nothing, and now he has changed terribly. When he meets me, he acts as if he didn't care any more. Yet his friends say he cares more than I think he does. I thought I didn't care for him, yet I can't enjoy myself anywhere. I can't keep my mind on my work and I'm always sick. He is sick a lot also. He knew before we broke up that I wasn't sure of my love for him. Do you think he is trying to make me realize how much I care?

SORRY: If you are quite certain of this boy's love, I think you have nothing to worry about, dear. Because it may be just as you say—he wants to test your affection for him. At any rate, at 17 you are too young to plan your marriage and the best thing for you to do would be to continue this friendship without pledging yourself in any way.

Then, when both of you are old enough to know the full significance of love, you can entertain marriage as a serious proposition. In the meantime encourage the boy's friendship and he will respond.
